The Preamble

Social work as a profession from its very inception has been concerned with the promotion of the well-being of people assisting them at individual, group, and community levels to fulfil their unmet/felt needs and find the solutions to the problems which inhibit them to lead a meaningful and satisfying life in the society. The profession is especially concerned with the advancement of economic interest of the people with social justice and at the same time it helps to seek a deeper source of happiness i.e. self-realisation. Social workers view people and their environment as integrally intertwined and interdependent. As service professionals and change agent social workers not only work with individuals to effect personal changes, but also share a commitment to working towards changes in institutions and society. The profession is committed to encourage the people to take a broad view of the issues and challenges confronting any person, group or their organisation; and thus places emphasises on taking a holistic view of human life.

Strong foundation of social work education and practice is based on its three primary (Social Casework, Social Group Work and Community Organisation) and three auxiliary (Social Welfare Administration, Social Work Research, and Social Action) methods. Alongwith its theory inputs in the class room settings, the support of strong field work orientation, it promotes social change and social development, by professionals working towards empowering people. Social work believes in the individual freedom, human rights and individual and collective responsibility where the welfare of the people is at the centre stage i.e. there is no clash of interest between society and its units. It prepares the human beings at different stages of their life to face and address the challenges and for this it draws the knowledge, theories, skills, values and norms from many other social sciences.

Social work firmly believes in the inherent and hidden potential of the people and the need based optimum use of the available resources in the environment. It focuses on the individual wellbeing in a social context that would consequently lead to larger collective growth and wellbeing. As a profession, social work believes in the interplay of individual and environmental resources that impact each other contributing positively to the growth and development of the people and society. Professional social workers are always aware and sensitive to the cultural and ethnic diversities and crunch of resources that leads to discrimination, poverty, unemployment, deprivation, and injustice. It therefore strives to enable people to fight against these. Social work activities are found in form of direct and indirect services like direct practice, supervision, consultation, administration, counselling, advocacy, social action, extension work, policy planning and development, education, research and evaluation. Each has its arena of practice; in seclusion or as is mostly seen in conjunction. Theories of Social Work practice have made sense of a lot of unknown social phenomenon, and over decades to come up with a vivid picture of social realities.

The mission of the social work profession is rooted in a set of core values. These core values, embraced by social workers throughout the profession's history, are the foundation of social work's unique purpose and perspective: in terms of service, social justice, dignity and worth of the person, importance of human relationships, integrity and competence. This constellation of core values reflects what is unique to the social work profession. Core values, and the principles that flow from them, must be balanced within the context and complexity of the human experience.

Society is not a static entity as change is the law of nature. With the changes taking place in the society, the nature of the human needs and the ways and means to satisfy them also change, the social reality diversifies and the economic social and technological advancement create new challenges, new issues and new problems. Social work which is deemed to be a panacea for all social problems has to be abreast of all these realities and social work educators and practitioners should also change them accordingly. It is against this backdrop that the University Grants Commission (UGC), New Delhi, has appointed an Expert Committee for drafting Learning Outcomes based Curriculum Framework (LOCF) for Social Work Syllabus at undergraduate level intending to prepare a uniform pattern in terms of Model Syllabus for the institutions imparting social work education at the UG level.

The main purpose of the Undergraduate Programme in Social Work is to develop and disseminate knowledge, skills and values through education, field training and research necessary for promoting, maintaining and improving the functioning of individuals, families, groups, organizations and communities existing in the society. The programme is strongly committed to a diverse learning environment, in which respect for dignity and worth of all human beings and understanding of diverse conditions would be practiced. It respects individual uniqueness and offers a professional program to build a foundation for practice with population groups, keeping the larger goal in mind.

The learning outcomes-based curriculum framework (LOCF) for undergraduate education is a framework based on the expected learning outcomes and academic standards that are expected to be attained by graduates of a programme of study and holder of a qualification. The key outcomes that underpin curriculum planning and development at the undergraduate level include Graduate Attributes, Qualification Descriptors, Programme Learning Outcomes, and Course Learning Outcomes. This Z to A approach is important from the standpoint of the urgency with which professional social work needs to respond to the challenges of an ever changing society. Describing the desirable outcomes more clearly and more specifically, aligning them to the professional abilities needed, has been the basic mandate of the task undertaken by the Committee. Each of the components, namely Graduate Attributes, Qualification Descriptors, Programme Learning Outcomes, and Course Learning Outcomes has been delineated and given a location in the curriculum. The matrix thereby created has been the framework for Committee members to use as a frame of reference. It has evolved from the earlier ones presented in previous Curriculum development exercises, to be now redefined with added experiences of teaching and practice of social work. The realities have changed, the context has changed, the practice is changing and therefore the approach of learning has to alongside change.

The CBCS approach as an integral part of the LOCF enlarges the students’ choices and enables them to select from the prescribed courses (core/elective or skill enhancement). In conformity with the UGC guidelines the curriculum for BSW has incorporated certain new inputs/learning and its salient features make it relevant to the contemporary practice mode.

The Committee hopes that the prepared LOCF for BSW syllabus will be of immense relevance to the prospective graduates having interest in social work education and practice. It will be very useful to make BSW students more vibrant and versatile by enhancing their skills and leading to their increased employability and in shaping their overall personality to take on the challenges of a competitive society - nationally and internationally. For the teachers, it has direction and an inbuilt flexibility. It has learning that is incremental, and will help hone the abilities of students who come from varied backgrounds. Also it gives them an opportunity to build on individual potential and produce a pool of better professionals each year.
1. Introduction

A high priority task in the context of future education development agenda in India is fostering quality higher education. Further improvement of quality of higher education is considered critical for enabling effective participation of young people in knowledge production and participation in the knowledge economy, improving national competitiveness in a globalized world and for equipping young people with skills relevant for global and national standards and enhancing the opportunities or social mobility. Sustained initiatives are required for institutionalizing an outcome-oriented higher education system and enhancing employability of graduates through curriculum reform based on a learning outcomes-based curriculum framework, improving/upgrading academic resources and learning environment, raising the quality of teaching and research across all higher education institutions; technology use and integration to improve teaching-learning processes.

Contemporary India is unique in terms of having more than 50 percentage of its population below the age of 25 years. The country needs to address the needs of students aspiring for professional education and for them to be well equipped with knowledge and skills to take up employment. There is a need to inculcate in them an attitude for life-long learning and understand the need for ongoing skill development. It therefore posits the need for paying attention to skill building and enhancing employability of these youth and to give them the direction for building the foremost nation of the world. In this direction, the Institutions of higher education have an important role to play.

Social Work is a dynamic profession and always endeavours to respond to fresh challenges. Located in the very depth of the socio-cultural milieu, its very existence depends on this response to a changing context. It addresses the concerns of society and develops young social work professionals with the best of knowledge, skills and attitudes.

As is the case with other professions, Social Work too has a ‘science’ and an ‘art’ to it. Besides its core domains, it draws upon other disciplines. Over years, all professions have grown, and with expansion of knowledge, the boundaries between different disciplines have become porous. It therefore emerges (a) that curricula need to be revisited and revised; (b) supportive knowledge areas and skill demands for practice be addressed in the curriculum; (c) employability of young professionals should be kept in view; (d) pedagogies should be innovative and evolving out of the profession and (e) assessment and evaluation need to have a wide coverage of the knowledge and skills acquired during the course of study.

The Process

The University Grants Commission constituted a three member Committee under the Chairpersonship of Prof. Raj Kumar Singh to take up this task. Two more members were co-opted after the first meeting in Delhi.

The UGC firstly conducted a meeting of the Core Committee members and briefed them on the TOR and mandate of the LOCF. In the first phase there was exhaustive discussion among the committee members on the expected outcomes in view of the changing realities in the new socio-economic-cultural and technological milieu. Graduate attributes and descriptors were deliberated and listed in the context of Social Work practice. This was done to work upon the specific curricular inputs, both theoretical and practical, for the graduate program.

The task for development of the components of the semesters was undertaken, and exhaustive perusal of the available syllabus outlines was done with the aim of identifying the areas that may be incorporated to bring relevance to the goals of social work practice and education. Alongside the Committee crystallised the Vision, Mission and Objectives of the new curriculum. As expected this process was enriching for all members to further take up the task of collating information, shaping it to design the papers. Full attention was kept on the guidelines provided by UGC and the mandate of the CBCS. A public notice was issued by the UGC to seek the suggestions of the public and to gather wider opinion from the professional fraternity. These emails were shared in the meetings of the Committee. While most meetings were held in Delhi, a longer discussion meeting of three days was held in Lucknow. The period in between was engagement of the members with developing the papers which were intensively discussed in face to face meetings. The field work component required brainstorming and a new format evolved to give it a stronger foundation right from the Semester I. The Committee reiterated in its thoughts and actions the core elements that needed to flow through the curriculum as the following:
(a) The values and ethics of professional social work practice,

(b) The theory guiding the profession, and

(c) The skills that are necessary for practice and the ability to be engaged in lifelong learning.

The content and flow of the semester-wise papers indicate a balance between each of these. The Committee also reviewed the subject wise pedagogy and other transaction concerns. Lecture methods, case study, assignments, class presentations, computer based learning, art and craft, etc. have all been considered. Also learner centric pedagogies have been incorporated where possible. Internal assessment and final examination, evaluation have been detailed. The emphasis on research runs in the syllabus with a special component of dissertation being added with the process and format lay out. The strength of the program gets added with the choice it gives to the students in terms of the learning opportunity. General electives and discipline specific electives have been prescribed by the UGC. However, the latter have been designed to offer to the student a wide selection. The formulated curriculum outline is as under:

Further the Vision and Mission of the new curriculum are presented below:

Vision

The LOCF-Social Work envisions the creation of a just and humane environment where professionally trained social workers having a quest for life-long learning and deeper sense of service, help people in enhancing their capacity and efficacy in finding lasting solutions to their problems and fulfilment of diversified needs, and thus work towards making this world liveable in a free and fair manner in harmony with nature.

Mission

The Mission of Learning Outcomes based Curriculum Framework for Social Work is to ensure quality education to the aspirants foreseeing the developmental trends in higher education, incorporating multi-disciplinary skills, making professional education and practice of social work more attractive, preparing the youth for life-long learning in a competitive world and ultimately increasing the chances of their employability on the one hand and shaping their personality to take up new challenges, new assignments and new responsibilities comfortably on the other, and thus ultimately contributing in the mitigation of the problems of suffering humanity.
2. Learning Outcomes-based Approach to Curriculum Planning

The fundamental premise underlying the learning outcomes-based approach to curriculum planning and development is that higher education qualifications such as a Bachelor’s Degree programmes are awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement of outcomes (expressed in terms of knowledge, understanding, skills, attitudes and values) and academic standards expected of graduates of a programme of study. Learning outcomes specify what graduates completing a particular programme of study are expected to know, understand and be able to do at the end of their programme of study.

The expected learning outcomes are used as reference points that would help formulate graduate attributes, qualification descriptors, programme learning outcomes and course learning outcomes. They provide general guidance for articulating the essential learning associated with programmes of study and courses within a programme.

The learning outcomes-based curriculum framework is well intended to allow for flexibility and innovation in (i) programme design and syllabi development by higher education institutions (HEIs), (ii) teaching-learning process, (iii) assessment of student learning levels, and (iv) periodic programme review within a broad framework of agreed expected graduate attributes, qualification descriptors, programme learning outcomes and course learning outcomes. The overall objectives of the learning outcomes-based curriculum framework are to:

- Help formulate graduate attributes, qualification descriptors, programme learning outcomes and course learning outcomes that are expected to be demonstrated by the holder of a qualification;
- Enable prospective students, parents, employers and others to understand the nature and level of learning outcomes (knowledge, skills, attitudes and values) or attributes a graduate of a programme should be capable of demonstrating on successful completion of the programme of study;
- Maintain national standards and international comparability of learning outcomes and academic standards to ensure global competitiveness, and to facilitate student/graduate mobility; and
• Provide higher education institutions an important point of reference for designing teaching-learning strategies, assessing student learning levels, and periodic review of programmes and academic standards.

2.1 Nature and Extent of the BSW/ BA Honors in Social Work

Social work is very old as a service, and relatively new as a profession. Since the dawn of human civilization, it has been practiced as a humanitarian service. In its endeavour to serve human concerns, social work practitioners applied knowledge and techniques derived from varied fields of art and science to the resolve the social problems besetting individuals, groups and communities. Gradually, its arduous attempts to the service of humanity led to the dawn of Social Work as the discipline, scientific in method and artful in manner

Somehow the very nomenclature, 'social work' has also created some confusion in the minds of people. After 'social welfare' was institutionalized under the auspices of 'welfare state' that social work was recognized as a profession due to the demand of social welfare institution's to carry out the welfare programmes.

Overcoming the debates surrounding social work as a profession, scientific knowledge base comprise of (a) tested knowledge, (b) hypothetical knowledge requiring transformation into tested knowledge, and (c) assumptive knowledge requiring transformation into hypothetical and then into tested knowledge. Therefore, the responsibility of a profession is to insure that it has tested and verified knowledge and addresses the concerns of society and develops young social work professionals with the best of knowledge, skills and attitudes

In the course of helping, social work professionals uses a wide range of social work methods through the application of skills and techniques. Therefore social work graduates are expected to learn primary methods of social work that includes case work, group work and community work and auxiliary methods that includes social work research, social action and social welfare administration. In practice of the different methods, techniques and skills are used to assess problems and develop interventions. These are to be imbibed among students by acquiring various social work attributes such as having disciplinary knowledge, Communication Skills, Problem solving, Analytical reasoning, research skill, team work, reflective thinking, diversity management, moral and ethical awareness and lifelong learning.
Skill development of the students is a qualitative aspect where they not only learn to explore and employ their growing acumen in real life fields but also build capacity for lifelong learning. In this direction, Social Work is a dynamic profession and always endeavours to respond to fresh challenges. The LOCF visualizes that graduate training needs to attend to the following considerations.

1. Acquisition of graduate attributes and descriptors with demonstrated abilities through field work training.
2. Knowledge of Media and Information Literacy in the context of Social Work practice
3. Application of Programme Media in social work practice
4. Skill development and Entrepreneurship abilities to be taught at undergraduate levels
5. Development of research and analytical abilities through dissertation as a separate paper
6. Responding to dynamic socio-cultural milieu, restructuring of discipline specific papers for students.
7. Field work has been made an integral part of the syllabus, giving an opportunity to the students for practice in diverse settings
8. Selection of courses from range of electives allows in built flexibility, for students.

The central aim of undergraduate programme in social work is to develop and disseminate knowledge, skills and values through education, field training and research necessary for promoting, maintaining and improving the functioning of individuals, families, groups, organizations and communities existing in the society. The programme is strongly committed to a diverse learning environment, in which respect for dignity and worth of all human beings and understanding of diverse conditions would be practiced. It respects individual uniqueness and offers a professional programme to build a foundation for practice with population groups, keeping the larger goal in mind.

2.2 Aims of Bachelor’s Degree Programme in Social Work

The specific aims of learning outcomes-based curriculum framework (LOCF) in social work are:
a. To enable students to understand history, philosophy, values, ethics and functions of social work profession, and its linkages with other social science disciplines;
b. To equip students with knowledge on core and ancillary methods of professional social work, and its practice base;
c. To inculcate in the students values of enquiry and research; and thereby develop problem solving and decision making abilities;
d. To prepare professionals to practice in diverse social work settings and also address contemporary issues and concerns such as of marginalized and exclusive population;
e. To make learners- the young professionals sensitive to the needs of the people at individuals, group and community levels and to social problems in changing social, cultural and techno-economic context;
f. To develop young professionals with good communication skills and quest for a self-motivated life-long learning, focusing on skilling and re-skilling in their respective field of social work practice;
g. To develop in the graduates a perspective on understanding planning and development at the national and international levels; and also thrust on national policies directed towards achieving sustainable development
h. To imbibe in the learners the values of social justice, human rights, empathy, hard and honest work- thereby developing in them the vision to work towards an egalitarian society.
3. Graduate Attributes

The graduate attributes reflect the particular quality and feature or characteristics of an individual, including the knowledge, skills, attitudes and values that are expected to be acquired by a graduate through studies at the higher education institution (HEI) such as a college or university. The graduate attributes include capabilities that help strengthen one’s abilities for widening current knowledge base and skills, gaining new knowledge and skills, undertaking future studies, performing well in a chosen career and playing a constructive role as a responsible citizen in the society. The graduate attributes define the characteristics of a student's university degree programme(s), and describe a set of characteristics/competencies that are transferable beyond study of a particular subject area and programme contexts in which they have been developed. Graduate attributes are fostered through meaningful learning experiences made available through the curriculum, the total college/university experiences and a process of critical and reflective thinking.

The learning outcomes-based curriculum framework is based on the premise that every student and graduate is unique. Each student or graduate has his/her own characteristics in terms of previous learning levels and experiences, life experiences, learning styles and approaches to future career-related actions. The quality, depth and breadth of the learning experiences made available to the students while at the higher education institutions help develop their characteristic attributes. The graduate attributes reflect both disciplinary knowledge and understanding, generic skills, including global competencies that all students in different academic fields of study should acquire/attain and demonstrate. Some of the characteristic attributes that a Social Work graduate should demonstrate are as follows:

Disciplinary Knowledge: Capable of demonstrating comprehensive knowledge and understanding of one or more disciplines that form a part of an undergraduate programme of study. Awareness of the social context, policies and programmes directed towards social development; understanding of social problems, social legislations and the rights based approach.

Communication Skills: Ability to express thoughts and ideas effectively, demonstrate the ability to listen carefully, read and write analytically, and present complex information in a clear and concise manner to different groups. Develop skills in verbal and non-verbal communication, preparation and presentation of documents/reports/PPTs. Skills of interpersonal communication, use of IEC and programme media in working with diverse population groups. Able to use ICT in a variety of learning situations, demonstrate ability to access, evaluate, and use a variety of relevant information sources and develop digital literacy as applicable to the professional needs.

Critical Thinking: Capability to apply analytic thought to a body of knowledge; analyze and evaluate evidence, arguments, claims, beliefs on the basis of empirical evidence; identify relevant assumptions or implications; formulate coherent arguments; critically evaluate practices, policies and theories by following scientific approach to knowledge development.

Problem Solving: Capacity to extrapolate from what one has learned and apply their competencies to solve different kinds of problems by stepping out of comfort zones and taking up challenges in unforeseen challenges.

Analytical Reasoning: Ability to access secondary information as a consumer, identify right resources/data banks. Analyze and synthesize data from a variety of sources and draw valid conclusions.

Research-related Skills: As a producer of research develop basic skills and a scientific attitude, problem identification and formulation of research design; ability to plan, execute and report a research investigation; develop skills to prepare case studies and best practice documentation, learn to use appropriate software for analyzing data and work towards generation of indigenous knowledge.

Cooperation and Team Work: Ability to work effectively and respectfully with diverse teams; facilitate cooperative or coordinated effort on the part of a group and or a team in the interests of a common cause and work efficiently as a player.

Reflective Thinking: Awareness of and ability to use one’s professional skills and behavioural competencies that meet the need of the situation.

Self-motivated Learning: Ability to identify needs and mobilize resources independently, monitor and evaluate programmes. Ability to guide and lead clientele in the community/work setting in the right direction.

Diversity Management and Inclusive Approach: Able to understand and appreciate diversity (caste, ethnicity, gender and marginalization), values and beliefs of multiple cultures in a global perspective, managing diversity, use of an inclusive approach to the extent possible.
Moral and Ethical Awareness/Reasoning: Ability to embrace moral/ethical values in conducting one’s life, formulate a position/argument about an ethical issue from multiple perspectives, and use ethical practices in all work. Capable of demonstrating the ability to identify ethical issues related to one’s work, avoid unethical behaviour such as fabrication, falsification or misrepresentation of data or committing plagiarism, not adhering to intellectual property rights; appreciating environmental and sustainability issues; and adopting objective, unbiased and truthful actions in all aspects of social work.

Lifelong Learning: Capable of self-paced and self-directed continuous learning aimed at personal/professional development and for improving knowledge, attitude and skills as also re-skilling in diverse areas
4. Qualification Descriptors

A qualification descriptor indicates the generic outcomes and attributes expected for the award of a particular type of qualification (e.g. a bachelor's degree or a bachelor’s degree with honours). The qualification descriptors also describe the academic standard for a specific qualification in terms of the levels of knowledge and understanding, skills and competencies and attitudes and values that the holders of the qualification are expected to attain and demonstrate. These descriptors also indicate the common academic standards for the qualification and help the degree-awarding bodies in designing, approving, assessing and reviewing academic programmes. The learning experiences and assessment procedures are expected to be designed to provide every student with the opportunity to achieve the intended programme learning outcomes. The qualification descriptors reflect both disciplinary knowledge and understanding as well as generic skills, including global competencies that all students in different academic fields of study should acquire/attain and demonstrate.

Qualification Descriptors for a Bachelor’s Degree with Honours in Social Work: The students who complete three years of full-time study of an undergraduate programme of study will be awarded a Bachelor’s Degree. Some of the expected learning outcomes that a student should be able to demonstrate on completion of a degree-level programme may include the following:

- Demonstrate (i) a fundamental/systematic or coherent understanding of an academic field of study, its different learning areas and applications, and its linkages with related disciplinary areas/subjects; (ii) procedural knowledge that creates different types of multidisciplinary professionals including research and development, teaching and government and public service; (iii) skills in areas related to one’s specialization and current developments in the academic field of study; (iv) Professional and behavioural competencies.
- Use knowledge, understanding and skills required for identifying problems and issues, collection of relevant quantitative and/or qualitative data drawing on a wide range of sources, and their application, analysis and evaluation using methodologies as appropriate to the subject(s) for formulating evidence-based solutions and arguments;

- Meet one’s own learning needs, drawing on a range of current research and development work and professional materials;
- Apply one’s disciplinary knowledge and transferable skills to new/unfamiliar contexts, and demonstrate knowledge to work with individuals, groups and communities.
5. Programme Learning Outcomes

The outcomes and attributes described in qualification descriptors are attained by students through learning acquired on completion of a programme of study. The term 'programme' refers to the entire scheme of study followed by learners leading to a qualification. Individual programmes of study will have defined learning outcomes which must be attained for the award of a specific certificate/diploma/degree. The programme learning outcomes are aligned with the relevant qualification descriptors.

Programme learning outcomes include subject-specific skills and generic skills, including transferable global skills and competencies, the achievement of which the students of a specific programme of study should be able to demonstrate for the award of the Degree qualification. The programme learning outcomes clearly focus on knowledge and skills that prepare students for further study, employment, and citizenship. They help ensure comparability of learning levels and academic standards across colleges/universities and provide a broad picture of the level of competence of graduates of a given programme of study.

6.1 Course Learning Outcomes

The programme learning outcomes are attained by learners through the essential learning acquired on completion of selected courses of study within a programme. The term 'course' is used to mean the individual courses of study that makes up the scheme of study for a programme. Course learning outcomes are specific to the learning for a given course of study related to a disciplinary or interdisciplinary/multi-disciplinary area. Some programmes of study are highly structured, with a closely laid down progression of compulsory/core courses to be taken at particular phases/stages of learning. Some programmes allow learners much more freedom to take a combination of courses of study according to the preferences of individual student.

Course-level learning outcomes are aligned to programme learning outcomes. Course-level learning outcomes are specific to a course of study within a given programme of study. The achievement by students of course-level learning outcomes leads to the attainment of the programme learning outcomes. Each course has these learning outcomes detailed.

The format of the LOCF Social Work curriculum includes the following:

1. Core Course (CC): Every semester consists of Core Course/s which is to be compulsorily studied by a student as a core requirement to complete the programme in social work discipline.

2. Generic Elective Course (GEC): A Generic Elective course focuses on those courses which add generic proficiency to the students. An elective may be ‘Discipline Centric’ or an ‘Open Elective.’ The latter may be chosen from an unrelated discipline and gives flexibility to the departments to select in the University.

3. Ability Enhancement Compulsory Course (AECC): In the CBCS scheme of this undergraduate programme, the students are mandatorily required to choose two subjects of their liking for additional knowledge and building their competencies outside their main subjects of study. These subjects termed as AECC consist of the courses in Communicative English and another on Social Work and Media and Information Literacy. The latter includes study conventional and contemporary media to be used in working with communities.

4. Skill Enhancement Course (SEC): The social work stream offers skill enhancement courses that help the students to enhance their knowledge and develop their skills for getting employment or for self-employment related to social welfare, development and allied areas. The two new papers in the LOCF curriculum are (i) Programme Media and its application, and (ii) Skill Development and Entrepreneurship.

5. Discipline Specific Elective (DSE): Students will have to opt for DSEs that will equip them with practical knowledge. These DSE courses are value addition to the students of social work in strengthening their knowledge and skills and in doing so be able to follow their interest. One DSE course is on writing of a dissertation in Semester Six and to give an experience of hands-on learn of the techniques and skills of research. The other three DSE courses (two in Semester V and One in Semester VI) give the student the choice to pick from a basket. These clusters are furthering their knowledge of streams of social work practice and therefore help them pursue their individual learning needs. These clusters of courses are:

Discipline Specific Elective (DSE) -1

- a. Health: Issues and Concerns
- b. Disaster Management
- c. Environmental Social Work

Discipline Specific Elective (DSE) -2

- a. Social Deviance
- b. NGO and Project Formulation
- c. Counselling and Guidance
Discipline Specific Elective (DSE) -3

a. Dissertation and Viva Voce

Discipline Specific Elective (DSE) -4

a. Social Work and Marginalised Populations
b. Corporate Social Responsibility
c. Social Work Practice with Differently Abled

6. Field Work Practice (FWP): Concurrent fieldwork placement aims at ongoing learning through integration of theoretical constructs into practice which provides an opportunity to develop intervention skills in real life situations. In structuring the field work, the essence of learning has been of making it incremental over the six semesters. The first semester has now a theory paper on field work which includes self awareness, ethics of practice, report writing, and skills and techniques. It is considered that a theory paper will develop a deeper understanding among the students of importance of field work and make them ready for working in agency/community. The Semester 2 also has a different format with observation visits to different settings of Social Work practice. Programme media workshops will develop their skills for practice in settings in forthcoming semesters.

7. Rural Educational Camp (REC): The 8-10 day camp will acquaint the students with rural and tribal scenario and their socio-economic aspects. They will in this manner get familiarized with group dynamics and power structures in a rural Community, learn rapport formation, situational analysis and awareness generation, and develop attitudes helpful for effective team work. The camp trains students in the art of organizing and managing activities and events relating to camp.

8. Dissertation: In Semester Six of the programme, the students will be required to work on a dissertation apart from their theory and fieldwork courses. The topic for the dissertation will be decided in consultation with the concerned faculty supervisor on any relevant and contemporary social issue or social problem. It will give them an opportunity to develop their research skills.

Title of the Paper: DISSERTATION
Marks/Credits: 150/6

Dissertation would be carried out by the students during 5th and 6th semester of BSW. It would be conducted simultaneously with the concurrent field work. The dissertation would be based on primary data, however, dissertation based on secondary data could also be undertaken by the student with due consultation of the field work supervisor. The dissertation work would enable the student to develop a clear understanding of the research and different steps associated with it. The topic for dissertation would be chosen based on a student’s own area of interest in consultation with the field work/research supervisor. The student would work with a field work supervisor who would also provide guidance and support throughout the course of the research.

Field Work Tasks and Activities

1. Continue to organize activities with groups of women, children, youth and other population groups.
2. Mobilize resources and develop network with other institutions/organizations working in the neighbouring areas.
3. Understand power structure of surrounding area and of local community stakeholders.
4. Seek client’s/beneficiary’s and/or people’s participation in utilizing agency and or community services.
5. Continuous self-assessment of field work experiences and professional growth.
6. Prepare and submit field work records for all the process involved.
7. Integrate theoretical knowledge with field practice i.e. methods, principles, skills and techniques of social work etc.
7. Teaching - Learning Process

The Learning Outcomes-Based Approach to curriculum planning and transaction requires that the teaching-learning processes are oriented towards enabling students to attain the defined learning outcomes relating to the courses within a programme. The outcome-based approach, particularly in the context of undergraduate studies, requires a significant shift from teacher-centric to learner-centric pedagogies and from passive to active/participatory pedagogies. Planning for teaching therein becomes critical. Every programme of study lends itself to well-structured and sequenced acquisition of knowledge and skills.

The expected outcomes are delineated below:

- Able to understand social work as a profession, its various ideologies and awareness of values and ethics of the social work profession.
- Able to demonstrate familiarity with Casework processes, tools and techniques and their application in Professional Social Work Practice.
- Able to demonstrate familiarity with groupwork processes, tools and techniques and their application in Professional Social Work Practice.
- Able to demonstrate familiarity with Community work processes, tools and techniques and their application in Professional Social Work Practice.
- Able to understand Programmes and projects of governmental and nongovernmental organizations and critically appraise them
- Able to understand the sociological concepts and notions of society, of economics and political framework in the context of social welfare
- Able to understand concepts related to psychology and social psychology and its relevance to Social Work
- Able to understand theories related to sociology and psychology and their application in developing social work interventions.
- Able to understand concept and manifestation of social problems
- Able to understand preventive and remedial measures for addressing contemporary social problems and role of social work in addressing them
- Able to conduct research and application of different methods and tools of data collection
- Able to understand the concept of human rights and its significance to the Social Work profession
- Able to understand the application of human rights to the various practice domains of the profession
- Able to prepare modules and strategies for social advocacy to bring sustainable social change
Able to understand the basics of Entrepreneurial Skill
Able to form small groups with different age and gender groups
Able to undertake case work with different age and gender groups in different settings
Able to understand the basics of counseling and guidance and its theories
Able to develop application of various counseling techniques with special groups
Able to understand the basics of counseling and guidance
Able to understand the theories of counseling
Able to develop application of various counseling techniques with special groups
Able to understand various types of programme media and their application in the various setting
Able to develop understanding of concept of social policy and social planning
Able to understand Concept and nature of Development and Human Development
Able to understand contemporary fields of social work practice like health, disaster management, environment and identify the role of a professional social worker in these diverse settings
Able to develop skills of Observation, Listening, Interviewing, Home Visits, Rapport Building, Resource Mobilization and Recording.
Able to develop skills of Facilitation, Analytical Thinking, Leadership Building, Programme Planning, Evaluation and using Programme Media in groups
Able to develop and sharpen skills for using media, information and digital communication.
Able to develop skills of data collection, organization, presentation, analysis and report writing
Able to know concept and basic features of NGO and project formulation
Able to develop skills to use basic programme media and role of social workers in use of programme media.
Able to understand the concept, importance and relevance of media and information literacy and develop understanding of social realities and issues from the lens of social media
Able to understand the abilities and skills of successful entrepreneurs
Able to develop professional attitude conducive to deal with human problems
Able to understand the concept and place of field work in Social Work education and role of Social Worker in different settings
Able to develop skills in Field Work like report writing, observation and Analysis
Able to understand programme media Skills in planning Social Work interventions
Able to develop skills of collecting and collating information to understand community, its structure and components.
Able to write process oriented reports and engage in meaningful discussions during supervisory conferences
Able to be acquainted with rural and tribal scenario and their socio-economic aspects through exposure in rural camp
• Able to learning the Skills and art of organizing and managing activities and events relating to camp

Therefore, the outcome - based approach, particularly in the context of undergraduate studies, requires a significant shift from teacher centric to learner-centric pedagogies and from passive to active/participatory pedagogies. For the teachers, the pedagogy makes a new demand and are listed below:

• Lecture by the course or teacher incharge
• Assignment on a specific topic that would be given by the teacher incharge and would be completed by the student
• Individual and Group Presentation could be envisaged after successful completion of the assignment and its sharing by means of presentation in small groups within a class.

Planning for teaching therein becomes critical. The diversity in transaction would find place in the paper where teachers can also make use of case studies, best practices and NGO exposure visits as part of the teaching process. These have been highlighted in the appropriate places. Every programme of study lends itself to well-structured and sequenced acquisition of knowledge and skills as listed above. The teaching of courses under the LOCF curriculum has paid special attention to pedagogies and specified them course wise.

The teaching of courses under the LOCF curriculum has paid special attention to pedagogies and specified them course wise.
8. Assessment Methods

The LOCF syllabus has brought to light the skill areas of Social Work across all courses. Graduate attributes and descriptors have been listed and kept foremost in designing papers and their desired outcomes. For the first time a course on Media Information Literacy in the context of Social Work practice has been designed with the aim of the graduates being able to understand the concept, importance and relevance of media and information literacy, able to understand social realities and issues from the lens of social media and how knowledge of media and information literacy is helpful to Social Workers for critically attending social issues. This would enhance their skills for using media, information and digital communication in their work. Application of Programme Media in Social Work practice is a rich area for learning and enhances student ability to work with diverse populations at the grassroots and this has been given adequate space. To enhance employability, papers such as “Skill development and Entrepreneurship” to be taught at undergraduate level is a desirable move. The cluster of DSEs to choose from (total of 9 courses) gives students a choice to pursue their interest. All the courses in this basket are relating to contemporary social work concerns.

For students the syllabus is bent towards skill enhancement and building capacity for lifelong learning. Alongside current concerns such as of CSR programs, LGBTQ groups, marginalized groups, environmental concerns have been taken into the paper construction process.

For the Teachers, the pedagogy makes a new demand. The LOCF syllabus is prepared for implementation across India; however regional concerns are widely diverse and should find space in the curriculum. This diversity would find place in the paper transaction where teachers will make use of case studies, best practices and NGO exposure visits as part of the teaching process. These have been highlighted in the appropriate places.

Assessment methods: The Assessment process is both internal and external and these have been detailed in subsequent paragraph. Assignments, and class presentations have been added to enhance student capability and an end semester exam will further evaluate the knowledge domain. A variety of assessment methods appropriate to a given disciplinary/ subject area and a programme of study are used to assess progress towards the course / programmes learning outcomes. In this curriculum a variety of assessment patterns have been incorporated which are formative in nature. A separate assessment pattern has been suggested for theory and field work which is mentioned below:
A. Assessment of Theory Papers: Each of the theory paper is of 100 marks. The learner will be assessed on the basis of examination having two components namely semester end examination and internal assessment. External assessments are designed, selected, and controlled by evaluator after the completion of the semester and semester end examination will consist of 80 marks. Depending on the local conditions and diversity among students long and short questions from related theory paper can be used for learner’s assessment.

Internal assessments will be used to make decisions about instruction and to understand progress to discipline related knowledge and skills. The internal assessment will be of 20 marks and will be further divided in three parts i.e. assignments of 10 marks, presentations of 5 marks and class participation of 5 marks. Besides, the listed pattern of evaluation, it can be calibrated according to students' knowledge, skills, and interests as well as the local conditions and diversity like Tests, quizzes, case studies, field exposure visits, examples of best practices, in-class work and peer reviews.

B. Assessment of Field Work: The assessment of the paper on field work in the Semester I-Introduction to Field Work Practice 1 will be on the pattern of theory papers given above. While in Semester II assessment will be done out of 200 marks including field work viva voce of 50 marks. Field work evaluation in Semester III, IV, V and VI will be of 150 marks, 200 marks, 150 marks and 200 marks respectively. In Semester IV a Rural Educational Camp will be organised and learners will be assessed on 50 marks. In Semester V and VI students have to undertake a dissertation along with the concurrent fieldwork and the dissertation will be of 150 marks.

The Assessment process is both internal and external and these have been detailed. Assignments, and class presentations will enhance student capability and an end semester exam will further evaluate the knowledge domain. To conclude, the eclectic flavour of the LOCF Social Work is designed to inculcate among the different stakeholders, teachers and students, a vision of the profession for the present and also the future; and in this affirmative path develop a quest for knowledge and lifelong learning. One can well state that in Social Work each day is a fresh beginning.
